Some would use the power of the State to foster certain tendencies, but we differ very widely in the means to carry out our common purpose. When we differ, it is in deciding on the means to be controlled by the people, and not as well to decide by the people. The extent we are all democrats and the extent the man more than the dollar decides the man more than the action that is being done. Every body that can hope for success, every dominating principle, industrial life is the democracy carried into industrial life is the principle of democracy, not because the Democratic party has beaten its rivals and come into control of the government, but for a defeat what may be called "triumphant defeat."
